

County kills market value tax initiative

The bid to establish county-wide market value assessment was finally squashed at the county table last Wednesday.

Rejecting the plea from Warden George Simmons to delay the vote, county councillors voted 11-5 against updating property assessments to reflect 1988 values for local taxation purposes.

The warden, who voted in favour of reassessment, urged council to postpone the vote until the province is done with its deliberations of tax reform. Councillors from both sides of the argument, however, insisted the vote go ahead. They said there has been more than enough debate on the issue since it resurfaced in the county last May.

A public information campaign was launched at the start of the summer by the county in conjunction with the Regional Assessment Office. Presentations were made to all municipal councils and public meetings were held throughout the summer to explain how re-assessment would work.

Re-assessment has been a heated

Members of the Haliburton Highlands Redmen senior football team whoop it up after winning the Kawartha West division with a 32-0 pounding of the Fenelon Falls Falcons. The junior Redmen would later shut-out their counterparts from Fenelon Falls 21-0 and also capture the Kawartha West. It is the first time in Haliburton Highlands history that both teams have gone undefeated during the regular season to win the championship. The Redmen teams will now move on and try to win the Kawartha Championship. See story on page 13.

Agreement is reached

Ministry will manage ambulance service

It looks as though the local ambulance management issue has finally been settled.

Although Minden Council hasn't yet received confirmation, all indications say the Ministry of Health will be taking over management of the ambulance service at the end of the month.

Council received a letter Thursday from Tim Masson last Thursday. Masson thanked the municipal staff for their support and professionalism throughout his two-year tenure as the supervisor of the Haliburton County Ambulance Service.

Giving particular credit to township clerk Tammy McKelvey, he said, "I feel that the smooth transition of this service to the Ministry of Health is directly due to her ability and professionalism."

The local ambulance service is currently managed by the municipality. However, council asked several months ago to relinquish control, since it was costing Minden to offer this service. Now, it appears, the ministry is willing to assume management at the beginning of November.

Composition of health committee challenged

Health committee incapable of understanding all the issues: Sonya Holliday-Rhodes

Just moments after accepting praise for their "thankless" efforts, the membership of the health care planning and development committee was criticized as being ill-informed.

Victoria-Haliburton MPP Dennis Drainville had just finished praising committee members for taking on this "time-bomb" issue, when Sonya Holliday-Rhodes stood and demanded that certain members resign their seats.

Some members of the Planning and Development Committee should step down and make room for doctors and nurses, Holliday-Rhodes insisted during Tuesday's meeting at Hyland Crest. Unless medical professionals are recruited to the committee, she said Minden will lose its hospital.

Some current members of the committee have a conflict of interest, said Holliday-Rhodes, who is the wife of Dr. Anthony Holliday-Rhodes. They should be replaced by representatives of the local doctors, nurses and senior citizens, she said.

Selection of members to this volunteer committee was done by means of a public invitation for applications. There was no response from doctors. However, it was pointed out to Holliday-Rhodes that there is a Registered Nurse on the committee and two senior citizens.

Committee member Cliff Blair took exception to Holliday-Rhodes' statement that "laymen" don't have the expertise to deal with the question of hospital services. Blair, who is blind, said he brings a different perspective on the health issue to the committee. Noting his physical and medical problems, he said he will probably have to leave the county before he becomes a senior citizen.

Blair also noted that the selection process for committee members was open to the public, but no doctors applied. "All of a sudden you people come and say we need a doctor."

Holliday-Rhodes' comments to the committee were made at the end of a presentation from Victoria-Haliburton MPP Dennis Drainville. Ironically, Drainville had just praised the committee members for volunteering to take on this "thankless job." Drainville said the hospital issue was a "time bomb two years ago and it's a time bomb now."

Drainville's response to Holliday-Rhodes' comments was that doctors should be consulted throughout the decision-making process.

"I assume all the discussions will involve consultation with doctors and nurses," said Drainville.

"That hasn't happened to date," replied Holliday-Rhodes.

Area doctors did, in fact, have an opportunity to express their views at a recent meeting. Doctor Irwin Asbell from the Rhodes Medical Center read a brief, prepared statement at a September meeting. However, he did not stay long enough to answer any questions from committee members.

Holliday-Rhodes explained that Asbell was representing the medical community in Minden at the September meeting. She said the committee's questions should be provided in writing to the doctors, who would then prepare a joint response.

Undaunted by any of the responses, Holliday-Rhodes repeated her call for representation on the committee. She said the recent closure of the Burkes Falls Hospital, suggesting Minden is treading the same path.

After the closure of the Burkes Falls hospital, a doctor was quoted in Ontario Medicine as saying, "This is a case of a hard working local board of well meaning people who don't have a clue what they're doing."

She said the committee is being misled by Frank Lussing, the director of St. Joseph's Hospital. "Mr. Lussing is becoming successful at closing our hospital," said Holliday-Rhodes. She claims Lussing has recommended that an intensive care unit be placed in Minden, which she said is impossible. She said Lussing's recommendation is a lie.

Health committee reflects area

The membership of the local health care planning and development committee came under criticism last Tuesday for its lack of medical professionals and seniors. In turn, committee members argued that the membership is a well-rounded reflection of the community and that doctors would be consulted in all decisions.

The following is a list of committee members and their backgrounds:

- Anne Wood - Registered Nurse, representative for the Haliburton, Kawartha Pine Ridge District Home Care Program;
- Ruby Way - representative for the Red Cross Homemakers Service;
- Robert Beeney - member of the Staunworth Non-Profit Housing and representative for the Minden and Lutterworth areas;
- Michael Collins - retired, scientist, representative for Glamorgan area;
- Douglas Campbell - member of St. Joseph's Hospital board, former member of the health care steering committee, retired, representative for the Minden area;
- Haddon Gillespie - member of the St. Joseph's Hospital board, from the Haliburton area;
- Jack Brezina - former member of the steering committee, newspaper publisher, representing the Minden area;
- Don Shortreed - businessman, former county warden, representing Dorset area
- Barbara Fraser - representing the Haliburton Social Action Committee;
- Cliff Blair - representing the physically challenged, from Minden;
- Bern Berry - Reeve, Minden
- Fred Gardiner - Reeve, Stanhope;
- Chris Hodgson - Reeve, Dysart.

Tax shift rejected by county council

topic in this county since it was initially proposed. The most ardent opposition to this tax shift came from lakefront property owners, who feared it would cause their taxes to skyrocket.

Prior to Wednesday's vote, the issue was snubbed by three of the county's municipal councils, which raised concern with Bicroft Reeve Hans Stevens. "I understood this would be addressed at county then go to municipalities," said Stevens.

Based on the current taxation formula, Bicroft pays proportionately more in county and education taxes than the other municipalities, said Stevens. He said a county-wide market value assessment would create a "fair playing field."

A study of the current system unveiled many inequities in the current tax system. For example, a house with an assessed value of $85,000 in Bicroft would have an education levy of $526. The same house located in Stanhope Township would carry a levy of just $355. The discrepancy comes from the use of different years as benchmarks for assessments in each of the 10 municipalities.

While market value assessment would alleviate these discrepancies, it would also shift more of the tax burden over to cottage properties. This fact has generated strong opposition to the plan from cottage associations, which argue that they received the least in terms of services for their tax dollars.

The Bicroft Reeve, however, said councillors must realize that the presence of seasonal residents strains the county's infrastructures at a cost to the county as a whole.

Specifically, Stevens noted the costs associated with the operation of landfill sites, the clean-up of litter on roadways, road maintenance and environmental damage from septic systems as costs associated with a prosperous tourism industry.

North Steel earns its name Lochlin business heads north - way north

by Andy Holloway

Living up to its name, North Steel recently had two of its employees flown in to do building repairs in Eureka, Northwest Territories, just 600 miles from the North Pole.

Minden resident Chris Allaire and Doug Bond from Kirkfield were sent to the territories to repair steel beams that North Steel had been contracted to construct.

Workers in Yellowknife had to saw the beams in half in order to fit them into the small transport plane that would take them to Eureka. However, when the beams arrived on-site, workers could not properly weld them back together and when one the beams collapsed the call went out for help.

"The contractor up there tried to save some money by hiring natives and local people, but they finally had to call in some professionals," says the owner of North Steel, Hans Walter.

Last February, Walter received a call from Bert French and Son Ltd., a contracting company in Port Sydney, Ontario, to construct steel beams for a Public Works of Canada project in Eureka. Walter has dealt with French for many years and is currently doing some work for him in Haileybury and Timmins. Walter says his company has to search for outside work because there is so little in the county.

"We have no choice but to go outside. If there is nothing going on in this area we have to go where the work is," says Walter adding that the job provided six weeks of steady work for his staff.

Because the building season in the far north is only about three months, the beams had to be delivered to Yellowknife by the end of May. As well, the extremely cold weather means concrete can not be used and so the steel structure has to be built to sit on a wood platform.

"For us as a company it was a real challenge for us to build a steel structure so far north," says Walter.

The building, which is called Project ASTRO (Arctic Stratospheric Ozone Observatory), is part of a complex where ozone levels will be observed and measured and will be used by various countries. Allaire says he was told that Japan would be the first to use the observatory and that the project would only last for five years.

Everything was proceeding well at the site

The sun twinkles and fades as it sets on the horizon in Eureka NWT. Building here was a challenge for North Steel.

until one of the steel beams that had been welded back together collapsed. On October 2, the contractor phoned Walter and asked for experienced help. While they did not volunteer for the duty, Allaire and Bond are on-site workers and so had to go.

The pair left three days later and arrived in minus 28 degrees Celsius weather (and you thought the recent cold snap here was uncomfortable). Not that it was cold all the time. Bond says by the time they left on October 15, the temperature had shot up to a balmy minus eight. There were some other peculiarities that became obvious once they were there as well.

"The sun is never atop your head, it just circles around and even when it comes up around 10 in the morning it is still in a haze," says Allaire.

As well, the north is not the barren wasteland that they expected. There were thousands of rabbits says Allaire, but only a few foxes. The rabbits were also bigger than the foxes which may have had something to do with their relative numbers.

One unpleasant surprise was the price of goods which escalated at every stop north.

"At our first stop, pop was $2," says

Allaire, "And it seemed to go up 50 cents at every stop north."

Another unpleasant event was when the camp's furnace blew on their first day there causing the pipes to break and so there was no heat, no warm water and no hot food. Instead of working on the steel beams as they were sent to do, Bond spent the day soldering the pipes back together.

Despite the problems, both men say their accommodations were adequate for the week. They lived in a bunk house, two miles away from the main camp, but 12 miles from the work site. Another building housed the eating quarters and recreational room which had a television, the only form of recreation they had, which was hooked up to a satellite dish at the main camp. The main camp also had pool tables and shuffleboard, but they were not allowed to use them because, as Bond says, that was not what they were paid to do.

Who needs recreation, though, when you're working 13 hour days in numbing cold. Every day, Bond says they were awoken at 6 a.m. and by 7:10 were on the trail leading to the site. The 12 mile journey took 45 minutes to complete as their truck had to climb steep and slippery slopes. The building is situated on a hill 2800 feet above sea level. Bond says they were lucky because they sat in the back of a covered truck that had a heater. Those who were there before them had to ride in the back of an open pick-up with nothing to protect them from the elements except for their own clothing.

Once there, much of the materials had to be carried by hand because there was no crane available. As well, if you needed a part or a piece of equipment you were stuck because the plane only came once a week.

Almost everybody spoke English says Bond so there were no problems communicating what had to be done. Local people were mostly employed at the main camp, however they did meet their fair share of characters.

"There was one guy who when we asked him about the weather he just smiled. I guess he didn't have too much to say," says Bond.

The job completed, the pair finally embarked on their way home, however there was one final surprise for them. At Iqaluit airport they had to go through a security check even though they were still on Canadian soil, which Allaire says was "pretty weird" - like their trip.

County calls for northern status

Benefits of becoming part of northern Ontario are unclear

The push is on to shift northern Ontario's border south of Haliburton County, but it's unclear whether this shift will bring any new advantages to the county.

Last Wednesday, county council voted unanimously to petition the province to designate this county as northern Ontario in order that it "may participate in the various programs established for northern Ontario."

However, except for a break on the cost of vehicle licence plates, no one seems quite sure just what these programs might be.

Contacted Thursday, county engineer Dave Valentine said he doesn't know whether designated northern Ontario communities receive any added benefits in terms of road subsidies.

Former county engineer Bill Obee, who now works for the Ontario Good Roads Association, echoed Valentine's comment. Except for cheap licence plates, he couldn't think of any advantages. However, he did say the county has tried before to get northern Ontario status, with no success.

Lee Authier, District Engineer with the Ministry of Transportation, said there are no significant benefits that would come from this shift. He said counties and municipalities would receive the same road subsidies they now receive. However, the shift would mean that future highway projects in the area would be funded through the Ministry of Northern Development and Mines. He said that ministry may also provide limited funds for certain municipal projects.

The county's chief administrative officer said there must be benefits to this shift since so many other borderline municipalities have tried to be designated. Gary McKnight wasn't entirely clear on what the benefits might be. However, he said it is worth a try even if the only advantage is the savings on licence plates. "It can't do any harm," he said. "If it can benefit people, why not try it?"

The county's idea to call for this designation came out of a recent visit by transportation minister Gilles Pouliot. The minister was in Minden to participate in the annual county roads tour, when he was asked why the ministry does not give northern Ontario status to Haliburton. The minister replied by asking local politicians if they had ever sought this.

The pens hit the paper and a resolution was drafted in time for last Wednesday's meeting. The resolution is not aimed only at the Ministry of Transportation but calls for northern recognition by all provincial ministries.

Haliburton Education Director Brad Saunders said Thursday that he is not sure of how this might impact on the county's education funding. This county initiative came as a surprise to the education director, who said it would take some time to figure out whether it would benefit the school system.

If the border shift is approved, however, Saunders said it could eliminate the advantages the board derives from its relationship with central Ontario school boards.

The Haliburton County Board of Education is presently considered to be a part of central Ontario and Saunders said there are certain advantages to this classification. Because of Haliburton's close relationship with other large boards in central Ontario, it is able to tap the expertise of their consultants at little or no cost. Shifting the northern Ontario border would link this school board with those along the Highway 11 corridor and north, reducing Haliburton's contact with the larger school boards.

The Town of Parry Sound is the most recent community to achieve northern Ontario status. The town's struggle to win this designation lasted several years and when the struggle ended, most of the benefits had dissolved.

As the editor of Parry Sound's newspaper, the North Star, Jim Hanna followed the town's efforts to win this designation. When contacted Thursday, he said the benefits of this distinction are limited.

Residents of northern communities can qualify for medical travel assistance through the Ministry of Health. This program, however, is mainly designed to assist residents in remote areas of the north, who face distant travel to the nearest medical facilities.

Probably the greatest potential for gain in this proposal could come from the Ministry of Northern Development and Mines. If the province agrees to have all ministries recognize Haliburton as a northern community, the county could then apply for funding through this ministry. Northern Development and Mines has traditionally provided funds for a wide variety of projects, from hospitals and fire departments, bridges and shoreline developments.

County opts for expansion

A bid to get on with the construction of a new county building was set aside last Wednesday in favour of studying the possibility of adding to the present building.

County Council has agreed to hire a consulting firm to look into the costs of putting an addition to the building, located on Newcastle Street in Minden.

Discussion on this move was done in Committee of the Whole. However, Lutterworth Reeve Cam Ecclestone said later the decision was made in recognition of the current economic climate.

Lutterworth Council had petitioned the county to move ahead on its plans to build a new county office. Councillors felt the project would boost the badly sagging construction industry. Immediate action would also allow the county to take advantage of the current interest rates and competitive construction costs.

After Wednesday's meeting Ecclestone said an addition to the building is a more realistic option at this point in time. Although he still favours the construction of a new office, he said there would be overwhelming opposition to the idea.

County council has been trying to find ways of accommodating its growing staff under one roof for several years now.

As a stop-gap measure the county has also decided to move its social services department into what has been the council chambers. Council will be tendering for contractors to renovate the council chambers.

Editorial National pride

The irony of the situation is unmistakable. While Canadians are still basking in the glow of national pride wrapped in a world series win by the Blue Jays we will be going to the polls today to address an issue that threatens to tear our country apart.

The Blue Jays captured the hearts of Canadians from coast to coast by pulling out a determined win with a hit off the bat of Dave Winfield in the top of the 11th inning late Saturday night. The game and the series gave Canadians a reason to be proud. It sparked a renewed sense of pride at a time when the future of our country as a united nation is in question.

Yet through it all, we couldn't help but be reminded of the fragile state of the country. Advertisers wouldn't let us forget. Proponents of the Yes and No sides of the constitutional argument took advantage of the situation by selling their morbid messages at every commercial break, obviously trying to make this Canadian spirit work to their advantage.

On Saturday the Jays wrote Canadian history. And today we will make history by accepting or rejecting the Charlottetown Constitutional Accord. We can only hope that we will be as proud of our contribution.

Let's get out to the polls today and put this constitutional wrangling to rest. Once that's done we can look ahead to 1993 when the Jays meet the Expos in the first all-Canadian World Series.

Hospital support

It's time to stop speculating on the future of the Minden Hospital and give the health care planning and development committee a chance to work through its study.

The issue of health care services in the Minden area grows more confusing each week as more and more people voice their fears about the situation. The issue has been put in the hands of a local committee to be resolved and they need our support in order to get the job done. Criticism of the committee only serves to instill more fear into this community.

Let's give the committee our support - not our antagonism.

Slick salesmen woo 'woopies'

"The baby boom was twice as big as the generation that preceded it. It's like a deer going through a boa constrictor. You don't notice anything the snake ate before or after. They're the biggest game in town and they will be until they die."

—Washington sociologist

And we're a long way from dying, we baby boomers. As a matter of fact we're just beginning to hit the half-century mark. Experts estimate that within the next three decades, the number of North Americans over the age of 50 will skyrocket by 80 per cent. Every third person you meet will be 50 or older.

It's not just a North American phenomenon. The Japanese are "silvering" even faster. So are Western Europeans.

saddle bags, we aging baby boomers. We also, according to the experts, pack a fair amount of scratch. In fact, surveys show that the over-50s already have as much spending loot as all other age groups put together.

Needless to say, the advertisers have sniffed out and homed in on this phenomenon like a school of piranha on a bleeding pig.

The marketers have studied us, subdivided us into "age groups"....they've even come up with a brand new name for us.

It's kind of silly to call something that's half a century old a "baby" anything. So we're not baby boomers anymore. Or Yuppies. Or teeny boppers.

We're Woopies.

It stands for Well-Off-Older-People - and if you are one, hang on to your hairpiece because you are about to be media blitzed like you've never been blitzed before.

You may have noticed some of the advertising changes already. There's a clothing company out there offering "roomier" jeans - pants that don't look like they've been put on with a spray gun. That's because the jeans' manufacturers realize that our bodies...aren't what they once were. We don't want flaunting clothes - we want camou-

County fails to see strength in unity

Editor:

Are the summer games finally over? Each week I read in the local papers where the "tug of war" between Minden and Haliburton continues. We watch from the sidelines each week to no avail. They are either tugging over waste management, hospital beds or if sewage plants are at capacity. But what is really being accomplished - tired-out politicians with red faces and tired spectators.

It is ironic that Stanhope can build a million dollar airport which no other municipality wanted, but we can't get together and build an addition to a hospital that would benefit people daily. There are residents of our county who are forced to make daily trips to large hospitals to visit their families. For what purpose are they forced to do this? If our neighbor has a well-kept home and a new car in the driveway, I would think we would try to better ourselves, rather than throw nails at the end of his driveway.

If these attitudes continue, I hope the editors will not give the "Hatfields and McCoys" much attention, but rather, report on the positive achievements that benefit our life in this beautiful county.

It is time that politicians, committee members and residents of the area all pull together, on the same side of the rope. It would be hard to imagine the progress and accomplishments that could be achieved - possibly chronic care beds in both Haliburton and Minden, better waste management systems, better highways, better attitudes and finally, a better place to live and vacation.

No vote means equality, freedom, liberty

Yes side spends obscene amounts of money to save Canadians from themselves

Editor:

The road Canada appears to be on during this referendum debate is going to become increasingly difficult if we believe in equal rights for all Canadians. The basic issues relating to the need for constitutional change are being clouded due to politics at its worst. Unfortunately, our official opposition has been lost for some time therefore we must rely on opposing views from an underfunded disenfranchised band known as the "no" group. The "Yes" side is spending obscene amounts of tax money bent on "saving" Canadians from themselves. The basic issues are too important to "hold our collective noses" and vote yes to individuals who want to go down in history. They may go down in history for different reasons than they expect. It is time to question a process in which an obvious mismatch of power is what we really want in this country on any collective issue.

Our family arrived in Canada over 200 years ago to escape poverty and persecution by "special interest groups" approved by the government of the day to carry out their agendas. The present government is taking us on a very similar path given the experience of unstable governments around the world. The ultimate conclusion to a constitution set up to temporarily satisfy special interest groups creates tension that can not be easily managed once released. Most people now living in Canada dreamt of relocating here to start a new life where opportunity was based on personal efforts not on your heritage, political affiliation or gender.

A constitution should reflect a true image of what Canadians want and believe. Changing the constitution should be a slow process with basic principles such as free speech and equality being the cornerstones of any agreement. The present show of power with the misuse of public funds without providing equal time to debate can not be good for all Canadians. Canada is perceived on the world stage as a fair, stable and principled country. Let us not jump into a deal that would jeopardize that image we all support. A "No" vote is a vote for equality, freedom of speech and the liberty to live in peace.

Is your number up?

House numbering

Council wishes to remind all residents that numbers have been allotted to each household in the Town of Minden. In the event of an emergency, it is critical that all houses be readily identified in the event the emergence crew is from out of town. We ask that you please visit the Post Office or Municipal Office to find out what your personal number is and mark your house accordingly.

Free Skating

Your council is sponsoring two free skating days at the Community Centre. This means the public can skate for free and past response indicates our residents really appreciate this gesture. We hope other organizations and businesses will follow suit and sponsor "no admission charge" days during the coming winter. New By-law officer

Council is pleased to introduce our new Municipal Law Enforcement/Chief Building Officer, Marshall Miller. Marshall was raised and educated in Haliburton and, after 16 years with IBM and 24 years in the building by-law field in Metro Toronto, expresses great pleasure to be "back home" in our township. When asked what his personal goals are in his new position, Marshall expresses concern for the difficult economic times and feels he can best serve the public by expediting the building application and approval processes to save time and money.

"I want the public to feel they can drop in anytime to discuss their proposal and how we might best resolve any difficulties. Tom Hubercheck, our previous officer, set a precedence for cooperation and regard for the public and I hope to carry on that tradition," says Miller.

Council feels that our newest staff member is a worthy addition to our administration. Drop in and say hello to Marsh.

Saving our hospital

Your council is most concerned about providing an excellent level of health care in the municipality. We are particularly committed to ensuring the Minden Hospital be maintained plus any upgrading options the facility may require. Your council is meeting soon with the Board of St. Joseph's Hospital to express our commitment to securing this municipality's health services.

A feasibility study, commissioned by the government, will ultimately make recommendations to affect the future of this crucial facility, but in the meantime, the community is expressing its concern through letters and phone calls to council. We ask that you also address these concerns to: Mel Johnson, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, St. Joseph's General Hospital, Peterborough, Ontario.

flage. I think the jeans will sell like hotcakes.

Not that all the new marketing ideas are successful. A few are downright duds. Some American telephone companies introduced "silver pages" - listings for goods and services specifically aimed at the older section of the populace. Woopies wanted nothing to do with them.

Last year, Johnson & Johnson introduced a new shampoo for "older hair". It grew cobwebs on the shelves. Woopies don't want their oldness rubbed in their face. So Johnson & Johnson scrapped the ads and wrote some new ones that promised the shampoo would make hair "alluring at any age". Sales took off.

Seems like Woopies are very sensitive about language. They're happy to consider living in an "adults only" environment - but don't want to be caught dead in a "retirement community".

Well, I'm sensitive about language too - particularly when it's employed by pussyfooting snake oil salesmen trying to separate me from my pathetic little hoard of loonies.

So, as I totter into Woopiedom (49 and holding), a word of advice to all those honey-tongued hucksters out there in media land:

Don't call me a senior citizen. Don't call me a golden ager or an oldster.

And for God's sake, don't you dare call me chronologically endowed.

As a matter of fact - don't call me at all.

I plan to be extremely busy for the rest of my days. Making whoopee.

Doctors oppose hospital closure

Loss of in-patient beds would be disastrous to the community: Dr. Dawson

Editor,

I address this letter to the people of Minden and the surrounding communities, as both a concerned physician and citizen, with regard to the threat to the future of the Minden Hospital. Many people are mistaken when they feel there is a Minden-Haliburton rivalry and that either the Minden or Haliburton hospital must close. Haliburton needs the Haliburton Hospital every bit as much as Minden needs Minden Hospital. I support Haliburton's endeavours to maintain their community hospital, just as I am sure Haliburton will support Minden's efforts to keep ours. Minden Hospital cannot adequately service Haliburton and vice versa. This is a time that requires solidarity and co-operation, rather than division between the communities.

There has been a proposal by St. Joseph's Hospital in Peterborough to relocate the emergency services now being offered at the Minden Hospital to Hyland Crest senior Citizen's Home. Supposedly, there would be a new wing built on to Hyland Crest to accommodate such services.

I am highly skeptical as to whether such plans are genuine. Rather, I suspect that there is more likely a plan to simply close Minden Hospital and then, after the closure, the proposed addition to Hyland Crest would never materialize.

A very crucial issue, which is not clear to everyone, is that this proposal could result in the elimination of in-patient beds currently available at Minden Hospital. The loss of these beds would be truly disastrous for the Minden area. Currently, we can admit patients into hospital with our present in-patient beds and treat them for a variety of acute illnesses, such as heart attacks, congestive heart failure, pneumonia, strokes, dehydration, diabetic complications, kidney infections and several other conditions too numerous to mention, with state-of-the-art monitoring, intravenous medications and excellent individualized nursing care.

We provide excellent palliative care for cancer and other terminal diseases when no cures are available. Here, we keep such patients comfortable with painkillers so they don't have to suffer. For these patients, they have the right to die with dignity, with support from their family members, friends and other loved ones in their own home town hospital, where they receive compassionate, personalized care which is second to none.

Minden Hospital is strategically located right next to Highway 35, providing excellent access for victims of traumatic motor vehicle accidents. I see no reason to change the site of the emergency facility to a less accessible location such as Hyland Crest.

In 1990 there were 895,000 vehicles that passed by Minden Hospital on Highway 35.

As you are aware, Highway 35 is comprised of a single lane in both directions and this predisposes to head-on collisions. Survival for these trauma patients depends on excellence in the emergency management in the first hour of their care, known as the "Golden Hour". At the Minden Hospital we have the ability to provide life-saving measures to these trauma victims. We secure an adequate airway and provide oxygen. We stop any bleeding. We start I.V. fluids and provide blood transfusions. We treat collapsed lungs with chest tubes. X-rays are done and we immobilized fractures. All these measures are absolutely necessary to save the patient's life. If the patient has a ruptured spleen, or other surgical presentation, it is the initial stabilization outlined above which keeps the patient alive until reaching the appropriate surgical facility.

Cardiac arrest victims must be defibrillated with electric shock paddles to restart the heart as soon as possible. After the heart has been stopped for more than six minutes, there is irreversible brain damage. Over the years, we have had several successful resuscitations at Minden Hospital in which the patient would not have survived if the patient had to be transported to a distant hospital.

The Minden Hospital is an accredited Hospital which means it meets the standard of excellence set by the Ontario Hospital Association in quality of health care. If Minden Hospital was an inadequate facility, it never would have received accreditation.

The current hospital risks closing or a change in role, because of financial deficits incurred by the St. Joseph's Hospital system. If the Minden Hospital closes the dollar saving to the Ministry of Health will ultimately be miniscule compared to the astronomical increase in the cost to the ambulance service necessary to transport patients to and from alternative hospitals, so therefore, there is no ultimate savings but simply an added expense in return for the elimination of presently available services.

Deficits are present at most other hospitals in the province. St. Michael's Hospital had a debt of $68 million last year. In fact, your tax dollars will be used to bail out St. Michael's Hospital. Yet, almost no other hospitals are under the threat of closure. These other hospitals which will remain open are nowhere nearly as isolated as Minden Hospital. Just look at any map of southern Ontario. It is hard to find a town other than Minden, so far from alternative hospitals. We are one hour away from Lindsay, one and a half hours away from Peterborough, Oshawa, Orillia and Huntsville. We have 9,298 people currently being served by the Minden Hospital as permanent residents. Of these, 2,052 are

Doctors petition for public support of hospital

26,453 residents served by our hospital. Also, we cannot overlook the motorists who travel Highway 35. As previously mentioned, in 1990, there were 895,000 vehicles passing the Minden Hospital on Highway 35. In other words, it is the only hospital which a few million people pass by with no other hospital between as far south as Lindsay and as far north as Huntsville. Our isolation makes the need for the survival of Minden Hospital desperate.

If Minden Hospital closes, lives will be lost as a consequence. I am by no means stating this as a "scare tactic" to convince you to support Minden Hospital, but strictly to inform you of the inevitable outcome. We are isolated and delay of urgently needed emergency care will result in pointless suffering and even deaths. Whoever denies this ultimate inevitability is simply deluding himself and others.

Dennis Drainville, our MPP, has repeatedly emphasized that he wants no elimination of currently available services, contrary to St. Joseph's Hospital. The person who appears to be chiefly responsible for proposing to close or change the role of Minden Hospital is Mr. Frank Lussing, Chief Executive Officer of St. Joseph's Hospital in Peterborough. Fortunately, it appears that Mr. Melvin Johnson, the chairman of the Board of Directors of St. Joseph's Hospital is on our side and has shown empathy and concern for Minden.

I don't believe that any unelected bureaucrat such as Mr. Lussing in Peterborough, has the right to arbitrarily put the lives of so many people at risk. I'm sure, if he had a summer cottage near Minden that he would agree with us.

If you want to stop the closure or altered function of this home-town Hospital that we are so proud of, I ask for your support. Please go to the Minden Medical Centre or Rhodes Medical Centre and sign the petition protesting the closure or relocation of services of Minden Hospital.

We are looking for 100% support. We cannot sit passively by and let a bureaucratic bully like Mr. Frank Lussing flippantly exclude over 26,000 residents and a few million motorists annually, the right to hospital care and allow innocent people to needlessly suffer and needlessly die.

Dr. Stephen Dawson,

The Petition reads as follows:

We the undersigned residents of Minden and the surrounding area currently served by the Minden Hospital, respectfully protest against any action by the St. Joseph's Hospital Board to close or change the role of Minden Hospital.

We are adamantly against any further reduction in services, such as X-ray availability. In our opinion, Mr. Frank Lussing, who has been appointed the Chief Executive Officer of St. Joseph's Hospital, has no right to unilaterally decide the fate of emergency health care and in-patient services to the 26,000 residents well served by our community hospital.

Coby Blue Jays

Blue Jays day at Ridgewood: Wednesday, October 21 was Blue Jays Day at Ridgewood Public School in Coboconk. Blue Jays emblems were everywhere at the school on the day of the fourth game of the World Series. Representatives from all grades at the school gathered in the gymnasium for a photo to show their appreciation for the Toronto Blue Jays and to help cheer them on in their bid for the World Series title against the Atlanta Braves. Pupils and staff wore Blue Jays hats and shirts and many of the youngsters had Blue Jays emblems painted on their faces for the day. The Jays took a 3-1 series lead the same night but lost the next game. If the Jays are able to muster half the enthusiasm their fans from Ridgewood have, they will be the World Series champions by now.

County to consider restructuring

Haliburton County Council will be asked to take a new look at the possibility of restructuring in view of the province's disentanglement initiatives.

Glamorgan Township Reeve Bev McDuff will be presenting a motion to examine restructuring of county services. Her motion will be made at the next county council meeting.

McDuff presented council with a notice of motion last Wednesday, providing fellow council members with a month's time to give thought to the issue. In her notice of motion, she said disentanglement and restructuring go hand in hand.

The province's disentanglement initiatives could have detrimental effects on small rural municipalities, said McDuff. Everything from policing, waste management, roads, septic systems, health care, day care and sewage treatment are among the responsibilities being downloaded to municipalities.

Although the Ministry of Municipal Affairs is promising unconditional grants to relieve the stress on small municipalities, McDuff said local politicians have not been told how this will be accomplished.

The county must give serious consideration to restructuring, said McDuff.

Smokers butt out

No puffing allowed in Dysart arena lobby

Smoking will no longer be permitted in the lobby of the Dysart arena.

Responding to a letter from a local resident, Dysart council passed a resolution last Tuesday making the lobby a smoke-free area.

Resident Brenda Cooper complained in a letter to council about the amount of smoke in the lobby and its effects on children.

Agreeing that "the arena is for kids," Reeve Chris Hodgeson suggested smoking should be restricted in the lobby. Councillors agreed.

Public access buildings are allowed to have smoking areas while municipal work places are not.

The only problem with the new by-law is how to enforce it, but councillor Gerry Walker said it could be self-enforced.

"I think you'll find that non-smokers will help enforce it with their comments," said Walker.

Signs will be posted stating that the lobby is a non-smoking area.

Smoking is still allowed in the lobby at the Minden arena.

Cadet Corps cops second highest honour

Haliburton cadets win Colonel Clarry trophy as best troop in Ontario

by Andy Holloway

Despite being in existence for only seven years, Haliburton's cadet corps received one of the highest awards in Canada last week.

The 1129 Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Cadet Corps based in Haliburton has won the Colonel John H.C. Clarry Trophy for the top army cadet corps in Ontario during the past year. As well as the trophy, the corps was awarded $1,000.

The award was presented to the corps commanding officer, Captain John Cooper at the annual Commanding Officers Conference in Trenton on October 4. In a ceremony last Monday night, Lieutenant Chantal Bellefleur presented the award to the corps' Chief Warrant Officer Jeremy MacDuff.

The Clarry trophy, which is the second highest award for cadets, is usually only won by cadet corps that have been in existence for 15 or 20 years says Bruce Harris, the area's recruiting officer. For Haliburton to win with only seven years experience is "quite special" says Harris.

To get the award, Harris says the corps have to excel in training and show improvement, hard work and determination in their training.

As well, MacDuff says team work amongst the cadets, who train at the Haliburton Legion, and their supporters, is a big part of the award.

"We couldn't have done anything without the support of our sponsors, officers, training area, cadet staff and the cadets themselves," says MacDuff.

The $1,000 will help to buy combat jackets for the corps to match the shirts and pants that the Legion supplied. Harris says the Canadian Army only supplies dress clothing for the corps as a result of spending cutbacks. Combat clothes are for Haliburton Legion. Also present for the ceremony were senior non-commissioned officers Randy Smith, Ryan Smith, Richard Aschenbrenner, Richard Armstrong, Eva Wheeler and Don Mawbey.

Haliburton's corps now boasts 60 cadets, up from the 27 they had during the annual summer inspection in June, but Harris says the corps want even more for this year's inspection which will also feature a military band. The corps is also on a fund-raising drive to get enough money for combat clothes.

Big Redmen Machine rolls on Both junior and senior football teams win the Kawartha West

by Andy Holloway

The senior Haliburton Highlands Redmen football team cruised to the Kawartha West championship with a 32-0 pasting of the Fenelon Falls Falcons.

With the win, the Redmen went undefeated during the regular season and under league rules do not have to play a play-off game to win the title.

The Redmen will now play the winner of the Peterborough City Finals which will take place on Saturday for the Kawartha Championship. That game will be played in Haliburton on Tuesday, November 3.

Since 1981, when the Redmen entered the top level of play, the seniors have never won at Kawartha although they have been bridesmaids twice.

The athletes from Peterborough are usually bigger and better, but coach Gary Brohman says he thinks this year's squad, while being underdogs, have a good shot at it.

"I would say this year's team is the best team we have ever put in to the senior Kawartha level. In fact, the Peterborough schools were up video-taping our game yesterday because they know we're a good team this year," said Brohman.

Against the Falcons the Redmen were set back early by a blocked punt, but on their ensuing possession marched down nearly the entire length of the field to go up 6-0 when Peter Van Leeuwen dived in from the two yard line. The drive was aided by a long pass-and-run play between quarterback Jay Hughes and tailback Andy Bacon. Jamie Keefer kicked the convert and the Redmen were on their way.

Consistent defence

For much of the half it was the Redmen defence that dominated the game, consistently giving the offence a chance to add more to their point total. However, it was the defence that twice forced the Falcons to concede safeties on third down punts.

Several dropped passes, which could easily have been touchdown plays, and a botched third down and goal attempt kept the Falcons from being completely blown out.

Hughes played a strong game, despite the dropped passes, and was able to run the Redmen out of trouble several times.

"Jay Hughes played outstanding. He did a super job of quarterbacking and he got some great running from Craig Harding, Bacon and Van Leeuwen. He was the mastermind of it all and did a super job," said Brohman.

With less than a minute to play in the half, the Redmen offence finally capitalized on their good field position when Bacon scored with a two yard run. Hughes had helped set up the major score with a 15 yard run of his own.

Down by 18 points, the Falcons came out throwing in the second half, but were victimized by several interceptions, including ones by Bacon and Jerry Cooper, and fumble recoveries by the Redmen.

Bacon put the game out of reach early in the fourth quarter with a six yard off-tackle play, despite the fact the Falcons coach had told his troops what was coming. Craig Harding scored the final touchdown for the Redmen, again after Hughes had set it up with a strong 20 yard run.

Juniors win 21-0

The juniors dug deep in their game against a strong Fenelon Falls squad to win 21-0 and take the Kawartha West division. Earlier in the season, the Falcons were the only team to score a touchdown against the Redmen in a 30-8 losing performance.

As well, the Falcons had the added incentive that with a win they would force a play-off game with the Redmen for the Kawartha West championship. However, it was not to be as the Redmen controlled play for much of the game and tailback Peter Brohman ran up over 200 yards of rushing for the sixth game in a row.

"It sounds repetitive, but without Peter (Brohman) we wouldn't win. He is truly a football player, he is rugged and tough and he frustrated them," said coach Brohman.

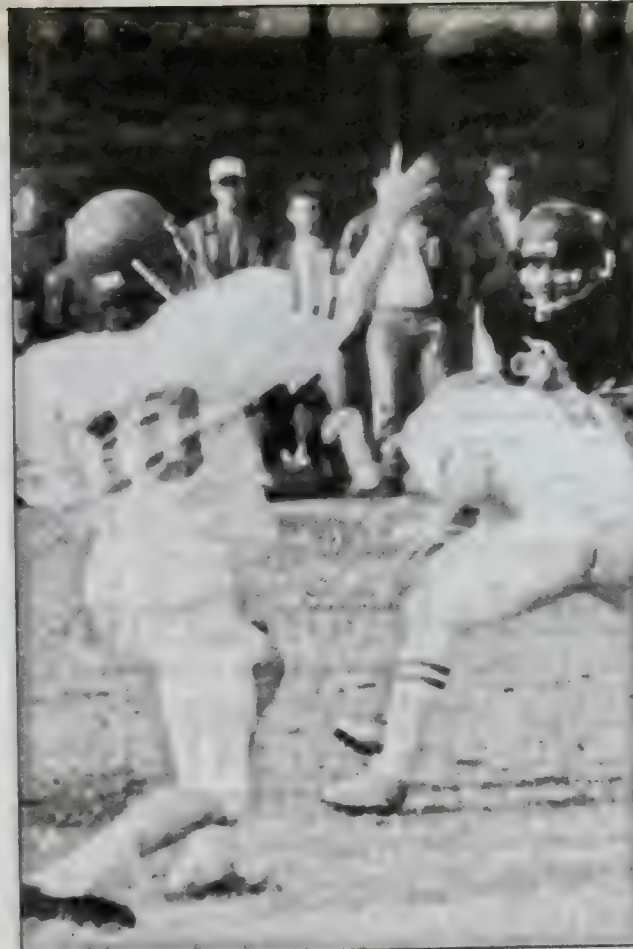

Peter Brohman scored all three touchdowns and Ryan Goodall kicked the conversion each time. Brohman's first touchdown was a classic display of power running as he bulled five yards straight up the middle for the score from five yards out late in the first quarter.

Also on offence, quarterback Sam Little showed he is improving every game in this, his first season at the position.

"Sam Little gets better every game and I think our whole offensive structure gets better every game," said Brohman.

The lopsided score is deceptive though

Minden men's hockey starts off with a bang

The Minden Men's Hockey League started its season off with a 10-2 pounding of The Times by Home Hardware last Monday night.

Jeff Howe led Home Hardware with a six point performance, including a natural hat trick (three goals in one period) in the second period. Also scoring multiple goals for Home Hardware were Harold Cowen and Tim Hunter, each with a pair.

The Times started well with Dave McKay beating goalie Newfer Burk for an early 1-0 lead. However, Home Hardware scored six times, including two each by Hunter and Cowen, before the end of the first period and the game was effectively over.

Scott Gartshore scored to start the second period, but once again that was all The Times could manage and Home Hardware scored four more times to finish the scoring.

Cowen ended the night with five points while Hunter picked up two points to go with his two goals.

In the second game, Westside Jug City lost 7-5 to defending champions Sid Stamp Fuels, but won the game by default.

Scoring for Westside were Doug Schell with a pair and Lorne Burgess, Steve Crowe and Gary Caspchuck with single tallies. Sid Stamp received two goal performances by Scott Hamilton, Brent Flood and the mysterious number 15, whose name escapes everybody. Jeff Campbell added the final goal for Sid Stamp.

At one point the score was 7-2 for Sid Stamp before Westside made a comeback attempt to make the score a little closer.

Hartwick Construction beat KDD 5-2 to wrap up the first week's set of games. After the first period it was just 3-2 for Hartwick, but two unanswered goals in the second period salted away the victory for Hartwick.

Greg Newell scored three goals, including the game winner for Hartwick while goalie Paul Humber allowed just two goals. Only Ivan Ingram and Scott Danilko could beat Humber on the night. Ingram also added an assist on Danilko's goal.

The six teams in the league will play another 14 games this season and then play a five game round-robin play-off series to determine which two teams will make it to the finals. The best-of-three finals will take place in March.

Future games:

Monday, Oct. 26 - KDD vs. Westside @ 8 p.m., Hartwick vs. Home Hardware @ 9 p.m., Sid Stamp vs. The Times @ 10 p.m.

Hockey coach recovering from surgery in Toronto

A Minden minor hockey coach is recovering in Toronto from an operation to remove a blood clot on his brain after his head hit the ice at the Minden arena last Tuesday.

Tim Woods, who coaches the Minden bantam team, was rushed to Sunnybrook Hospital from the Minden hospital, to receive treatment for injuries he suffered as a result of an on-ice accident during a practice.

Woods was demonstrating a drill when his feet got tangled up with a player and he fell into the boards. He then fell backwards onto the ice and the back of his head hit the ice.

A Sunnybrook spokesman said an operation to relieve the pressure on his brain as a result of the blood clot was performed last Wednesday morning and by 4 p.m. he was resting and in good spirits. No date has been set for Woods' release.

Woods was not wearing a helmet.

Soccer season ends

The Haliburton Redmen's senior soccer season came to an end last Tuesday when they were edged 1-0 by the Fenelon Falls Falcons.

The loss meant the Redmen finished third in their division and out of the play-offs. Despite the loss and their 2-3-1 record, coach Walter Tose said the team had a good season and should not hang their heads.

"The guys, I think, had greater expectations, but I think in view of the fact they're all first year seniors, except for two or three of them, that on the whole we had a pretty good season," said Tose.

"It was the kind of a season where one game made a difference between finishing first or third and with a little better luck we could have well ended up in first instead of in the third spot."

The Falcons scored the only goal of the game on a penalty kick. Nico Haedicke had a chance to tie the score up for the Redmen when he was awarded a penalty kick, but Tose said "he kicked it hard, but unfortunately right at the goalie."

The Redmen also had other good chances to score, but could not tie the game up. Darren Johnston was perhaps the closest to scoring when he was handed the ball right in front of the Falcons' net after their goalie kicked the ball right to Johnston. However, Johnston booted the ball directly back into the goalie.

Goalie Bruce Milne, Mike Morrison, Jonathan Bishop and Ritchie Mills all played strongly for the Redmen.

Earlier in the year, the Redmen had managed a 1-1 tie with Falcons and at that point were sitting in first place, unbeaten in three games. However, their scoring touch which had netted them eight in the first three games deserted them for the last three as the Redmen could manage just one goal.

On the positive side, only one starter, Darren Johnston, will be leaving the team and so next year's squad will be more experienced and should show more consistent results.

The junior Redmen pounded the stuffing out of the Falcons 6-0 in the second game of the day to finish their season with three wins and three losses.

Coach Mark Flatman said the Redmen "firmly dominated play" for the whole game, scoring three goals in each half. As well, Flatman said the team showed "good passing and improved ball handling skills" during the game.

Andrew Wilbee and Jay Corby each scored two goals for the Redmen while Jamie Thivierge and Josh Jarvis scored singles.

Sharing the team's second shut-out of the season were Scott Dedman and Curtis Fielding. Nathan Gibbons and Kevin Murdoch also played well for the Redmen who were knocked out of the play-offs two weeks ago.

The juniors were in a rebuilding year as most of last year's Kawartha West winning team jumped to the senior division. If the team can keep a strong nucleus for next year, it could be a double championship year for the Redmen soccer program as it was for the football program this year.

Ice water rafting: Despite near freezing temperatures, a few hardy souls still managed to enjoy the rapids on Gull River with a bit of kayaking on Sunday, October 18.

High school football teams triumph

because both teams' defences played well with the Redmen having the edge in recovered fumbles and interceptions. However, the game was marred by some less-than-legal hits and tactics by both sides and both coaches were upset by the opposing players. Still, boys will be boys and it certainly keeps the rivalry between Haliburton and Fenelon Falls fresh and bitter.

"Defensively what can you say. I would think that this is one of the best records assembled in Ontario," said Brohman referring to the fact the Redmen have given up just nine points all season while scoring 162.

As well, Brohman said the juniors benefited from having 51 players all eager to practice and keep in shape, despite the fact many will hardly have played a down all season.

"Someone said to me 'Congratulations on winning the Kawartha West' and I said 'Listen, you've got to have the horses to win and we've got some good horses' so I congratulate all of the kids," said Brohman.

The junior Redmen will play the winner of the junior Peterborough City Finals for the Kawartha title on Thursday, November 5 in Peterborough.

The juniors have twice won the Kawartha Championship. Brohman said the main ingredient for success at this level is a lot of grade 11 players. This year's junior squad has only two grade 11 players.

"Last year I thought we would win and I was very optimistic because we had a solid team. This year, we're big, not as strong as last year's team, but how we do depends on our competition," said Brohman.

County Briefs

Council moves out

The following items were discussed at the October 21 meeting of Haliburton County Council:

MOBILE COUNCIL

County Council may be taking its show on the road now that it has decided to transform the council chambers into office space for the social services department.

In a decision that was made in Committee of the Whole, council agreed to spend $20,000 to renovate the council chambers to make room for a growing social services department. Council will now be considering the option of taking its meetings to the 10 municipal offices on a rotating basis.

Another option that was considered is to hold the meetings in the hall at Hyland Crest.

The social services department is buying new computer equipment to help deal more efficiently with the increasing work load. However, there is not enough space in their present location below the registry office to house the new equipment.

OFF THE SHELF

The waste management masterplan could be lifted from the shelf in 1993 if funds are available.

There is no question of the importance of this initiative, said Stanhope Reeve Fred Gardiner. "Something has to be done."

The masterplan was shelved as part of the county's budget-trimming efforts a year ago. At least, Wednesday's resolution demonstrates that the county is still committed to completing the masterplan when funds are available.

PRIVATE SUPPORT

The county supported a resolution from the United Counties of Prescott and Russell to give protection to private ambulance operators.

Chief Administrative Officer Gary McKnight told council that the province no longer wants private operators. He said this resolution encourages the province to allow private ambulance operators to continue to operate.

Stanhope Reeve Fred Gardiner voted against the resolution, noting that the Swimmer Report on emergency medical services recommends that all ambulance services come under the jurisdiction of the Ministry of Health.

Province commits funding to local long-term care projects

The province is prepared to inject substantial funds into Haliburton County to improve long-term health care services.

The announcement was made last Tuesday to coincide with Victoria-Haliburton MPP Dennis Drainville's presentation to the local health care planning and development committee.

The services to be offered to seniors and adults with physical disabilities include three supportive housing projects and the 15-bed addition to the Haliburton Hospital.

Annual funding of $150,000 has been approved for three supportive housing projects which will serve up to 170 area residents. The units, located in Minden, Haliburton and Mounmouth Township, will provide emergency response, meal programs, tenant service co-ordination and wheelchair-accessible apartment units.

Local sponsors of these units are Staanworth Non-profit Housing, Haliburton Community Housing and Monmouth Non-profit Housing corporations.

Approval of the long-term care addition at the Haliburton Hospital is the first phase of the planning and development committee's efforts to improve services in the county.

A study is underway to determine the best location for another 15 long-term care beds in the county. That study will also investigate the future role of the Minden Hospital and Hyland Crest Home for the Aged.

High Times

by Jenna Stutt

Jamie Thivierge is the captain of the Redmen junior soccer team.

A building year for Redmen kickers

At the beginning of the soccer season, the junior Redmen realized it would be a building year. Several new players were introduced to the team and many of the outstanding juniors from last year moved on. However, there were still a few of last year's players who had helped the '91-'92 team to a win at the Kawartha West Championships.

One of these young men was the captain of the juniors this year, Jamie Thivierge.

Although Jamie didn't see a lot of action last year, he made a tremendous impact on this year's team. He scored three goals himself and helped to lead the team to three victories. His strong leadership and soccer smarts rubbed off on the entire team.

Jamie's favourite sport is baseball, however since it is not offered at Hal High in anything other than an intramural, he turned to soccer because of the endurance and finesse required. Jamie also plays volleyball and badminton and enjoys participating in track and field. Only in grade ten, Jamie has the potential to become an excellent athlete at HHSS.

Although the soccer season is over for this year, the juniors have shown some incredible talents, including those of Jamie Thivierge who will hopefully make a strong impact on the senior soccer team next year.

Congratulations to both the Redmen soccer teams for good seasons and we look forward to seeing them again next year.

MPP suggests innovative approach to long-term care

A creative approach to health care issues is the best option in terms of meeting future needs in Haliburton County, says Victoria-Haliburton MPP Dennis Drainville.

Speaking at last Tuesday's meeting of the health care planning and development committee, Drainville urged the committee to consider "radical options... options that spring from the community" when determining the future direction of health care in the county.

In the past, communities have been encouraged to adopt provincial models for the provision of health care services, said Drainville. This, he said, is a "recipe for disaster."

Since every community has its own unique characteristics, no one program or system can adequately serve them all. Instead of borrowing ideas from other communities, Haliburton has to recognize its own unique characteristics and implement services to accommodate them, he said.

Drainville's comments were in response to a question raised by committee member Michael Collins, who has previously endorsed unconventional options for long-term care. One such option proposed by Collins would be to purchase an existing resort and adapt it for use as a long-term care facility.

Federally-funded program boosts economy

Community Futures committee aims to ease the effects of the recession on this county

Haliburton County's Community Futures Committee is working with the federal government to battle with local unemployment and boost the economy.

Community Futures is a government initiative designed to allow communities to assess their needs, then design and implement strategies to solve their long-term employment and economic problems.

In order to qualify for the program a community must have a greater level of need than the national or regional level. The community's level of need is based on factors such as level of unemployment, the level of dependence on social assistance, income levels, the age of the workforce, the number of workers moving to other communities, workforce participation rates, and educational levels.

The community must also show it has the potential to react to its problems by planning and managing an effective local development process.

A Community Futures committee is chosen to develop the community's plan and then overlook its implementation. There is no formula for deciding how many people should be on the committee or what the make up of the committee should be. The committee is comprised of volunteers from the Community. The members of the Minden Community Futures Committee are Chris Hodgson, Ann Barker, Marilyn Kuno, Andy Salvatori, Barb Bolin, Austin Fults, Leo McCarthy, Jane Selby, Dennis Casey, Gina Robertson, Mark Staggs and Andy Campbell.

There are several steps in the implementation of a Community futures program.

First the membership of the committee must be set and approved by the Minister of Employment and Immigration.

Next the committee must design its plan and decide on its roles and responsibilities. In Haliburton, the committee is adopting the economic development plan which was prepared a few years ago for County Council. The next stage is the actual implementation of the plan.

Finally there is an assessment by the Ministry of Employment and Immigration every five years to decide if the program will continue.

The Community Futures program has three separate departments which work together.

The first department is the Community Initiatives Fund. This is used for community projects which will benefit the economy and the employment picture. The Chamber of Commerce, for example, may be eligible for funding through this program to promote tourism in the county.

The project which the money is used for must get at least 50 per cent of its funding from nonfederal investors and result in long-term job creation at a reasonable cost to Employment and Immigration Canada.

Another area of the program is Business Development Centres. These centres provide money to people who wish to start a business or expand and have not been able to get the funding from the banks. They also provide technical and counselling advice to existing small businesses within the Community.

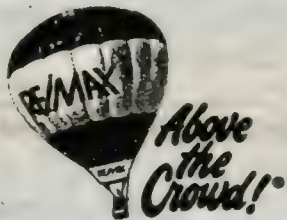

The Haliburton County Development Corporation, which has been in existence for several years, fills this function.

The third area is Self Employment Assistance. This allows a person who is about to start a business to continue receiving Unemployment Insurance and/or Social Assistance while the business is being started. The program also provides training and support to the participants. The limit for participants in the first year for this area is 10.

Genealogists preserve memories of forebearers

*We've crossed thy hands upon thy breast
We've kissed thy ice cold brow
And in our aching hearts we know
We've no darling Willard now.*

This fall the Haliburton Highlands Genealogy Group completed the recording of the Wilberforce cemetery under the able direction of our coordinator Cecil Rowe. The above inscription was found almost by accident when the transcriber took a stiff brush to clean off the moldy growth to find a date on this stone. All cemeteries in Ontario are being recorded by Ontario Genealogical Society members in order to preserve the information for those who wish to remember their forebears and/or do family research. Ravages of time and the elements and vandalism are making it imperative that this recording be completed as soon as possible. Our small group has now recorded most cemeteries in the county and copies of these may be purchased from the group or you may see them in the genealogy section of the Minden library. We will update the previous recordings of Evergreen next spring.

Our membership is growing slowly as people find that we have a group ready to help in local research. Our next newsletter will be out this month and a copy will be sent to the main OGS library at the North York Central Library's Canadiana Room where most researchers go first to start their research and find what resources are available in Ontario. Our group is trying to increase the resource material here by subscribing to other groups and sharing the resources that we own. A list of our holdings is kept at the Minden Library. Currently we are selling raffle tickets of handmade articles to raise funds to purchase genealogical books for the library. Please support us. You may find the clue that you have been looking for to further your own family research in one of the books that we are able to purchase.

Some new sources of information are now available to us. We have been informed that the census for our area is available at the main office of the library. The Minden Museum has been taking videos of local people who can enlighten us about the early history of our area and of some of the pioneers. Cec Rowe is a very enterprising genealogist - when organizing a reunion recently he asked everyone to bring a telephone book with them from their home town. Cec will share these with us.

June Partridge demonstrated the use of mylar to encapsulate documents such as birth or death notices and photographs. Preservation of documents is a very important aspect of genealogy. After doing a lot of research it is important to decide where the information will be kept and preserved so that the next family member to show an interest in the family tree won't have to start the process all over again. A note with your will directing your executors to send your research the museum or library closest to your family's place of origin will make sure that this takes place.

Our next meeting will be held on November 25 at 7:30 p.m. Elections and the draw for our basket of handmade articles will take place. For tickets contact Carol Miles at 286-1752 or June Beeny at 286-1774 or any member of the group.

Award recognizes volunteer contributions

The Canada Volunteer Award was established by Health and Welfare Canada in 1977 to recognize and encourage those Canadians who have made outstanding voluntary contributions towards improving the health and social well-being of their fellow citizens.

Throughout the years the award has been presented to over 800 Canadians for their outstanding achievements. I know that those who have received the award represent only a small percentage of the dedicated men and women who volunteer their services for the benefit of their fellow Canadians.

The Canada Volunteer Award National Selection Committee invites you to nominate candidates. The committee requires:

1. A completed application form,
2. A complete and concise description of your candidate's voluntary work,
3. Three letters of support.

Please address your nomination or any enquiries to:

Canada Volunteer Award Secretariat,
Health and Welfare Canada, Communications Branch, Public Relations Division, Tunney's Pasture, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0K9 or telephone (613) 957-2977.

The closing date to receive nominations by the Secretariat is December 1, 1992.

CHACE Resource centre hours have been reduced.

The new hours are Mondays to Saturdays 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

DECISION
SINCE 1874

Television is not the answer

The greatest challenge to changing the way we live on the Earth is not economic or technological, but attitudinal. Thus, while there has always been change in the world, we must understand that today the rate of change has accelerated from a geological scale measured over tens and hundreds of millennia to mere decades.

We also have to learn to take responsibility for the world we inherit and pass on to future generations. In short, we must think on a long time scale, see our place in the whole ecosystem and try to conserve what we have.

In contrast, the message of commercial television today is exactly the opposite of the ecological way of thinking. Television is concerned with the moment, it fragments the world into disconnected bits and pieces and its over-riding message is to consume more and more.

Children today watch so many hours of television and killings and commercials that television itself is a major burden carried by teachers. Television disrupts concentration, creates demand for novelty and titillation, portrays a shattered, uncertain world and generates an insatiable demand for acquisition. I have long argued that technology in the classroom like video cameras and computers isn't a panacea for the enormous challenges faced by teachers because they merely exacerbate the babble of infoglut assaulting youth today. Students need to learn to use their minds to resolve many contradictions in their world.

I'm thinking of the disproportionate number of upper-middle class, white men from business and law in elected office which contrasts with our notions of representation and democracy; inequitable distribution of wealth both within Canada and between rich and poor nations; and conflicting demands for economic growth and environmental protection.

Resolution of these problems requires flesh-and-blood teachers to stimulate dialogue, passion and debate, not the restricted, impersonal and created world of television.

Yet school boards in six provinces - Alberta, Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick - have apparently opted to buy daily 12 minute newscasts orientated to youth which will be piped directly into schools. Produced by YNN (Youth News Network), broadcasting will begin "by early February at the latest" according to YNN president Rod MacDonald.

The justification for the newscasts is to compensate for widespread media illiteracy among youth, their failure to watch documentaries on television, boredom in class and a 30 per cent dropout rate. Give us a break. A 12 minute newscast is supposed to resolve this?

Reflections

by David Suzuki

And the crowning rationale is that we are in the midst of an inevitable electronic revolution that will steamroll schools if they don't jump aboard. But these educational problems are in large part created by television itself. Parents, teachers and school boards should consider carefully the potential consequences of this invasion of the classroom. One of the driving forces behind YNN is electronics companies which are "giving" schools that sign on the hardware for interactive television. Of course, the companies will expand the potential market for their products.

Perhaps the most telling part of the YNN proposal is the two minutes of the 12 minute broadcasts that will be devoted to commercials. No matter how innocuous or well-intended government or private ads are, the basic ideology is the same as hard-core commercials - buy the product or ideas we are selling.

YNN is a private company driven by profit not the education or well-being of students. Good television reports are expensive. If the newscasts are low budget amateurish productions with lots of "talking heads," they will quickly bore students who are sophisticated television consumers.

There will be a powerful temptation to use VNRs (video news release). They are slick advertisements packaged as news reports to announce a new product or technique from industry, an academic report that really promotes a university or a government announcement that is really political. VNRs are distributed free as "news" pieces. MacDonald told me YNN would like to do longer documentaries which could well end up as "infomercials" that are merely longer VNRs posing as serious programs.

Commercial newscasts are a continuation of the corrosive effect of the thoughtless application of technology and will merely reinforce the pernicious messages of commercial television that are anti-educational and anti-ecological.

We should be focusing our attention and resources on that most critical part of a child's formal education, kindergarten to grade four. That's when children are open to seeing the world in new ways and to acquiring the attitudes and values so necessary for living in balance with the planet.

Beware of unsafe costumes

Whether your "trick-or-treater" is a little angel, a scary goblin or a Ninja Turtle, parents need to ensure their child can see, as well as be seen this Halloween, advises the Ontario Association of Optometrists.

"When children are wandering around at night, their safety depends as much on their vision as it does on their visibility," says Dr. Mary Trinaistich, president of OAO.

The OAO suggests parents make sure all costumes allow the child to move and see freely. Here are some tips:

* When it comes to costume planning, skip the masks and choose make-up. Masks can slip out of place and the eye holes are often so small that a child's vision is reduced. With the wrong mask, a child may trip over stairs or sidewalks and even step onto dangerous roadways. Look for the brands of waterproof make-up available for kids and make sure that the make-up particles and applicator do not get into the child's eyes.

* You can also help to shine the way for your little goblins by providing them with a battery-operated flashlight - with a fresh set of batteries. The light will make them feel more safe in the dark and will help them find their way on long driveways, on dark porches and on roadways where there are no street lights. Plus, drivers are apt to see flashlights.

* Don't forget to help drivers stay a safe distance from your children. The best protection is to apply retro-reflective tape or material to the child's costume. This material can be seen at great distances, even by drivers travelling at moderate to high speeds.

The OAO recommends placing the tape on a child's shoes and on their back and chest so they will be plainly visible at night.

Accord a group effort

In my last report to you I spoke about the importance and process of constitutional reform, in particular, the Charlottetown Accord that we will be asked to vote on this October 26. I hope my explanation last week of the Canada Clause as it appears in the accord was helpful.

The Charlottetown Accord is a balanced package that has dealt with concerns from across Canada, from a new Senate to Aboriginal self government and the Social Charter. It is the result of two years of discussion, negotiation, understanding and compromise. It does not cancel out our Charter of Rights and Freedoms but will exist in harmony alongside it.

Yet there is a lot of misunderstanding about the Accord. I hope to be able to answer some of your questions by talking about the Social Charter, the Elected Senate and some of the changes to Federal/Provincial powers.

The Accord deals with many changes to federal and provincial jurisdictions. For example, federal government can be streamlined and made more efficient by removing some of the duplicated services. Therefore, tourism, mining, forestry, housing recreation and municipal affairs will become entirely the responsibility of the provincial governments. However, Unemployment Insurance and other support services would remain in the federal sector.

Senate Reform was put forth by the western provinces and will bring about the sweeping changes to that institution.

The new Senate will be made up of democratically elected members. Senators will be elected either directly by the people or by members of a provincial legislature. Presently, senators are appointed by the Federal government.

- There will be 6 Senators for each province and one for each territory.

- There is a commitment to gender equality and aboriginal representation.

There will be changes in the House of Commons as well:

- increase in the total number of seats to 337.

- There will be better reflection of population in the number of seats each province has. Ontario will gain 18 seats. Quebec will have a guarantee of 25% of the total seats. This is equal to its percentage of population in the country.

The Social Charter was the proposal of the government of Ontario and I am very proud that many of our recommendations were embraced in the final document of the Charlottetown

Drainville Diary

A report from Queen's Park

With Dennis Drainville, MPP

Accord.

It commits governments to the "preservation and development of Canada's social and economic union". It includes:

- Health Care - the preservation of universal medicare for all Canadians.
- A commitment to high quality and accessible education.
- The preservation and protection of the environment.
- The right of workers to organize and bargain collectively.
- A goal of full employment.
- Ensuring a reasonable standard of living with access to food, shelter and other basic necessities.

This is a statement that a nation is more than its laws and form of government. How we look after ourselves and neighbours is just as important.

The Charlottetown Accord is not all things to all people, nor does it answer all of our concerns. But it is not the end of the process. We are asking for that process to continue.

We are agreeing that we can continue as a nation and that this is a document that we can amend further as our nation continues to evolve. It is a recognition that we have a common ground - though we are all different and with many diverse aspirations. We chose to accept some compromise, knowing that others have compromised for us.

No one government or group got more than others. All provinces wanted to change their relationship with the federal government - to better reflect their own needs (i.e. labour market training will be a provincial jurisdiction and more control over culture in provincial areas, will be given to each province.) The changes apply equally to all provinces and were agreed to by all provincial, territorial and aboriginal leaders.

Perhaps more importantly, the Charlottetown Accord will give Canada an opportunity to move out of a crisis situation into an era of stability.

It gives us a chance to get back to the business of working to improve the economy and to better life in Canada for all citizens.

Seniors say goodbye to organist Alice Jones

On Saturday, October 10, Louise Leonard came to entertain the residents with a musical hour. Thank you heartily Louise.

Terry came down on Saturday and took me for lunch and took some beautiful pictures from Pikes Peak. He also came for me so I could go out for dinner with Norma and her mother Clara Austin. Terry and I saw the video pictures he and Norma took on their trip to Grassy Narrows. I enjoyed them.

Many of the residents' families took them out for Thanksgiving dinner.

Alan Rice was good enough to show the movies for us Monday evening, October 13. They were "Holland in the Springtime" and "A Squirrel on my Shoulder". Thank you Alan.

On Tuesday evening, Kathleen Cannon came for reading. She read two short stories to us. This was the last time she will be reading here until next spring. They are having a holiday in Florida and then she will have an operation. Have a good vacation and much success on your surgery.

On Wednesday for our bus trip we went to the Brown Owl for lunch. It's hard to realize how much work is involved loading and unloading the bus - everything for our safety has to be checked and rechecked. A few residents get impatient, but we get there safely. We had a nice lunch and saw all the improvements made to the Brown Owl, including the wheel chair ramps which are great. The volunteers were Beth and Fred Parker, Lorraine Swinson, Jack Shedden, Dottie Muirhead and Helen Donaldson. Our capable bus driver was Merv Berry and our coordinator overall was Linda Fry. From our hearts we thank you all. By the generosity of Lorraine and Jack we stopped at Kawartha Dairy and had ice cream. Thank you very much.

Wednesday evening, Kathy Owens and Earl Cooper played piano, violin, mandolin and accordion music. It's certainly enjoyed by the residents. Thank you Kathy and Earl.

Thursday tea party was provided by the Haliburton Catholic Church Women. It was a delicious tea with music played by Carmel Hogan. The tea was served by Pauline Lancy, Joan Heppleston, Gladys Roberts, Eva O'Hara, Gladys Tanquay, Gina Salvatori, Victoria Formica and Dianne Collins. Thanks to all you ladies.

Happy Hour was very happy as Billie and Ted Pickard were here to entertain the residents and friends. The residents were delighted when Dottie Muirhead brought two large jars of Rice Krispie Squares for an extra treat. (I was late and they were all gone). Thank you Ted, Billie and Dottie. The volunteers were Ellen Holden, Mary Guillemain and Dottie Muirhead who we sincerely thank.

The sympathy of Hyland Crest goes out to the family and friends of Annie Jones who passed away Thursday, October 15.

On behalf of the residents and Rev. Burgess, I wish to express our sincere thanks to Alice Jones for her kindness and faithfulness for playing the organ at our Sunday night chapel service. She has spent many hours learning new hymns to play, as she plays by ear. Last Sunday was her last night as our organist. Thank you again.

Volunteers needed to sell poppies

Jack Sykes still needs volunteers for poppies. There is a board up in the lobby of the legion, if you can give him some time, please put your name on so we can fill it up.

There will be a service in Haliburton on November 11 for all comrades who can make it. Time is on the board in Minden.

Children will be parading to the Cenotaph in Minden on the same day, for those comrades who can't make it to Haliburton, it would be great to attend with the school children at 10:15 a.m.

Our own service will be held in Minden at the Cenotaph on November 8, forming up at Minden Firehall at 1:45 p.m. Let's all get out for this. "Lest we forget". Refreshments will be served at the legion after the service.

Don't forget your early bird dues. Let's have a hundred percent.

A few members attended District Drumhead Service in Trenton. It was a cold, windy day and they were almost blown away, however they all arrived safely home.

Anyone needing rides to the polling booth, contact the legion at 286-4541.

Our sincere sympathy goes out to Comrade Betty Maddock and family in the passing of her husband Comrade Ron.

Don't forget Comrades, to wear your poppy. We will remember them.

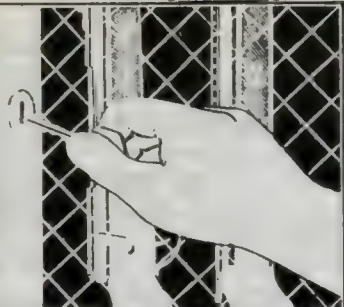

Trivia night will be held November 18 at 7:30 p.m.

See you at the General Meeting on November 4.

Buckle up those small children

In Ontario, approximately 17,000 children under the age of five are involved in motor vehicle collisions each year. In a crash, sudden stop or swerve, small children are very vulnerable. An important way to reduce the risk of death or injury is by proper use of child safety seats.

Some suggestions from the Ministry of Transportation about how to safely secure a child in a car seat include:

- * Choose a seat that is easy to handle
- * Read the manufacturer's instructions to ensure proper usage

* An infant under 20 pounds (9.1 kilograms) is safest sitting in a rear-facing position

* Place harness straps flat over the child's shoulders and fasten the buckles so they fit snugly

* If blankets are placed over the child, place over the straps of the seat, not under the straps - this prevents the child from slipping out of the seat in case of impact

Tribute to a local hero

Editor,

In regard to a story in recent police report, I feel it is important to acknowledge Scott Valentine as the local hero who was instrumental in the rescue of a Moore Lake family.

On August 29 of this year, Scott's sister, Lorie, married Tom Reddering at the Miner's Bay Baptist Church. Following the ceremony, Scott and his wife detoured to the home of his mother, Margaret Valentine of Moore Lake.

While driving past the Moore Lake Bridge, Scott noticed an overturned canoe. his wife pointed out a woman trying to hold a baby above the water. Scott immediately raced to his mother's home, jumped in the boat and saved the family of three (and a friend) by pulling them from the water.

Needless to say, Scott was late for Tom and Lorie's wedding reception. His wet tux never made it. But most importantly, he saved four lives. And all of us who know Scott are very proud of him.

Sincerely,
Jeanette Pilcher,
Horseshoe Lake
(Maid of Honour)

Editor's note: In gratitude for Scott's heroism, a generous donation was made to the Hospital for Sick Children and to the Minden Hospital on behalf of the family he rescued from the water that day in August.

ONTARIO GOVERNMENT NOTICE

Commencement of Route Planning Study and Environment Assessment
For an Ultimate 4 Lane Divided Controlled Access Highway For Highway 60, From Highway 11 to Oxtongue Lake

The Ministry of Transportation of Ontario (M.T.O.) has initiated a route planning study under Work Project (W.P.) 551-91-00 to assess route alternatives for an ultimate 4 lane divided controlled access highway for Highway 60 from Highway 11 to Oxtongue Lake.

This study is expected to be completed by the end of 1995 and will include a comprehensive public participation program. The first in a series of Public Information Centres is tentatively scheduled for spring 1993. These Information Centres will allow the public and interested groups to discuss their concerns with the Project Team members. The public will be notified in advance of the Information Centres.

In order to ensure early and continued involvement of the public in the conduct of the study, an environmental assessment proposal (EAP) document is available for public review. This document outlines the proposed study process to undertake the study technical activities and the public participation program. The public is encouraged to review the document and provide comment to the Ministry or the Consultant Project manager. The document is available for viewing at the following locations:

Ministry of Transportation Planning and Design Section North Bay, Ontario 1-705-497-5453	Town of Huntsville Municipal Offices Huntsville, Ontario 1-705-789-1751	R.E. Winter & Associates Ltd. Mississauga, Ontario 1-416-890-0110

A Public Advisory Team (PAT) is also proposed to assist in the conduct of the study. The PAT will be an advisory body to the Project Team to ensure that public concerns and input are available throughout the duration of the study. The PAT members will be selected from area residents, businesses and local interests. Public Advisory Team meetings will be held in the evenings, in Huntsville, on about six occasions through the course of the project. If you are interested, please contact the Consultant Project Manager in writing by November 14, 1992. Your application should provide your name, address, occupation and interest in the study.

This study is subject to the requirements of a Group "A" Environmental Assessment process for projects of this type. At the end of the study, an Environmental Assessment Report - One-Stage Submission will be prepared to satisfy the Provincial Environmental Assessment Act RSO 1980. This process is designed to resolve any concerns of parties affected by this project.

Comments and information are now being collected by the Ministry of Transportation of Ontario to assist in meeting Environmental Assessment Act requirements.

We would like to obtain any comments and concerns that you may have regarding this project. If you would like to be added to our mailing list or to provide comment or concerns, please send any comments or requests to:

by Jeanne Sears (call 286-1538)

Paul, Sharon & Elaine Sisson and Ron Johns spent last weekend at their summer home.

Trent McElwain of Pickering was visiting with his mother Dorothy McElwain last week.

Sympathy is extended to Florence Robinson on the sudden passing of her sister-in-law, Violet Bowen of Little Britain.

Jim and Pearl Foster opened their home and invited friends to celebrate the 50th wedding anniversary of Milton and Margaret Fletcher. A great time was had by all, especially the mock wedding party.

Eden and Chris Hobden from Toronto enjoyed a weekend visiting with Grandma, Irene Moore.

All good wishes to the following: Audrey Vick, Judy Stevenson, Betty Simmerson, Jim Woods, Wes Baker, Helen Johnson, Bill Mosely, Jean Anderson, Lee Turner, Doris Robertson, Shirley Demuth, Ken Campbell, Pearl Lyle, Mary Oliver, Kaitly Hill and Norm Marrow.

Eleanor Pye enjoyed a trip to Cookstown to celebrate her brother Fred and wife's golden wedding. Their children supplied a delicious lunch and it was wonderful to renew old friendships. Eleanor travelled down with daughter Mary and hubby Jim for the occasion.

At the weekly card party at St. Paul's on Monday, October 19, all enjoyed the lunch and went on to play euchre. Winners included Iris Taylor for most lone hands with others Marg McAfee, Elli Langpohl, Joyce Hewitt and Gladys Wruth. The draw was won by Irene Fuhr.

Kit Schroter visited with relatives in Lakefield recently.

Coming events as called in: October 27 Senior Legion group euchre games at 2 p.m. all welcome. November 4, Velma Stiver will demonstrate Christmas Angels at the Legion at 2 p.m., phone 286-3509 for details. Changes

People had houses a long time ago, Houses were places to live in, you know, But now most people seem to have a car, Any they are not contented unless they travel far.

They used to love their children and seemed to be content

And most of their simple pleasures, didn't cost a cent.

Now the divorce rate is growing so fast, We often wonder why marriage doesn't last.

So we must all learn more love to give And be glad we live in Canada, the best place of all to live.

Florence Robinson.
